Living Without Christ

Fred Craddock once told a parable about a man who moved into a cottage equipped with a stove and simple furnishings.

As the sharp edge of winter cut across the landscape, the cottage grew cold as did its occupant. He went out back and pulled a few boards off the house to kindle the fire. The fire was warm, but the house seemed as cold as before. More boards came off for a larger fire to warm the now even colder house, which in turn required an even larger fire, demanding more boards. In a few days the man cursed the weather, cursed the house, cursed the stove, and moved away.

The futility that man felt is the futility of those who try to live the Christian life without Christ. He is the Word that was in the beginning with God and was God. And He is alive today. To those of us who are drowning He is someone we can hold on to. He is someone who can set our feet on dry ground again.
